          password_confirmation: "secret" } } »       assert_redirected_to users_url

Note the use of dynamically computed values in the fixture, specifically for the value of `password_digest`. This code was also inserted by the scaffolding command and uses the same function that Rails uses to compute the password.[80]

At this point, we can administer our users; and only authenticated users can access our site. Now we need to open things up so that customers can access the store.
