> political debate has passed and the earthquake of party passion has spent its force, the ‘still small voice’ of the Supreme Court has always prevailed.

And further on:

> The most effective restraint which freemen have ever imposed upon themselves is this extraordinary power of the Supreme Court. The value of such a restraint upon precipitate action is so great that it is improbable that the American people will, at least in the near future, thus destroy the efficacy of the great balance wheel.

That is the spirit in which the Constitution has to be respected and worked. Here are a set of men who are selected by the Government. They are not foreigners coming from outside. They are our own chosen selected men holding office during their life, entrusted with the duty of seeing whether the country is being administered in the spirit of the Constitution. At the same time I do not say that the Supreme Court judges are infallible. They are after all human beings. Supposing the Supreme Court does something which goes entirely against the basic principles on which the Constitution of free India should stand. I am not suggesting that we should tie our hands and watch helplessly. Then come forward on that specific issue and amend the Constitution on that particular point. Do so after giving fullest opportunity to the public to express their viewpoints. The Prime Minister referred to three points. Has the Supreme Court given any decision with regard to foreign powers? Has anything happened in this country which necessitates that the Constitution should be disfigured with such a deplorable provision? What has happened about public order? Is not your present law sufficient? Has the Press run amuck? Even according to the Prime Minister, there may be a few news-sheets who may be shouting. Let them shout. If they shout, use the other Press; use the platform, the radio or whatever machinery you have. You make the people feel that what the gutter Press is saying is absolutely unacceptable. That is the only way in which you can nullify the activities of a small section of people who want
