approach the question from differing viewpoints', and you further say, 'I feel that your approach is not very helpful.' You further refer to my Calcutta speech and say, '[…] in which you mentioned my name and issued some kind of a "challenge" to me, I felt that the public statement was unavoidable and hence my statement.' But you do not even now give me the purport of my speech, and what was the 'challenge' which compelled you to say what you did in your statement which you considered unavoidable.

I know nothing about your being in correspondence with Nawab Ismail Khan referred to in your letter.

Finally, I note your request that I should let you know 'what exactly are the points in dispute which require consideration'. I am glad that you agree with me that the arguments carried on through the medium of the press are not desirable. But do you now think that this matter can be discussed, much less solved, by and through correspondence? I am afraid that is equally undesirable.

I may state for your information that I received a letter from Mr Gandhi, dated the 19th October 1937, and I replied to him on the 5th November '37, and I am still waiting to hear from him.

I reciprocate the sentiments expressed in the last but one paragraph of your letter at the end of it.

Yours sincerely.

M.A. Jinnah
