Kanth's wife, Rekha, visited Madras but fell sick within a day. A worried Kanth spent two days with her in the city, dropped her back to Delhi and took the return flight back to Madras. In the meantime, Verma went to a friend's house and tried his hand at cooking while taking instructions from Shobhana over the phone. Kaarthikeyan visited his family in Hyderabad for a day on his way to Delhi. Ragothaman slept for an entire day and night at home and returned to work fresh. Sri Kumar stayed back while his colleagues were away, keeping communication alive among the officers and Malligai. Information poured in round the clock at Malligai about Sivarasan —it seemed he was everywhere at once and nowhere.

For some, the short break afforded an opportunity to introspect. To begin with, there was the chief investigation officer Ragothaman's take on the much-awaited 'videotape' that had recorded the tragedy at Sriperumbudur. The Congress candidate from Sriperumbudur, Maragatham Chandrasekar, and state Congress chief Vazhappady Ramamurthy had hired the services of a videographer to record the event on the night of 21 May. 'Imagine visuals of Sivarasan, Dhanu, Haribabu, Shubha, Nalini and Santhan loitering around the venue of the rally! Who were they talking to? Whether a party functionary granted them access to the VIP enclosure or if they did everything on their own will be clear from the video,' Ragothaman had said.

It was widely believed that Dhanu, along with a Congress worker Latha Kannan, had talked to Latha Priya Kumar, daughter of Maragatham Chandrasekar, and obtained permission for garlanding Rajiv Gandhi. The information should have been confirmed by the video cassette. Latha Kannan had died in the blast. And Latha Priya Kumar had denied giving them permission. The recordings in the video cassettes could have been vital, but the IB was sitting on it and Kaarthikeyan had not bothered to get them back, much to the dissatisfaction of Ragothaman.

The videographer, hired by Maragatham Chandrasekar, was shooting Shankar Ganesh's music performance and activities at the site, of the movements of the people in and around the stage. The other one, engaged by Ramamurthy, was covering the events around Rajiv Gandhi from the moment he had landed at Meenambakkam airport and gave press interviews
