Bhagyanathan about the house in Villivakkam where Nalini had stayed with Sivarasan, Dhanu and Subha. He looked through the interrogators. He said he wanted to collect his thoughts before answering. He pleaded for some rest. Ragothaman spoke to Verma and acquiesced. The SIT's strategy was to give him a bit of a break before they put him through a strenuous session of interrogation.[7]

In response to the latest public appeal by the SIT, an informer of Ragothaman claimed he knew someone in Madurai who had seen Nalini in the company of a young man with a tonsured head. It could be Murugan, but no one knew what he looked like without his thick, bushy hair and moustache. The informer further stated that Nalini had visited a house in Madurai, wanting to rent it. She had introduced the man with the tonsured hair as her husband's brother. What crossed Ragothaman's mind was that Haribabu's girlfriend, Sundari, lived in Villupuram, close to Madurai. Did Nalini visit her? The informer had no idea about that. Ragothaman suspected Nalini might not have known that Sundari was already in the SIT's custody following the discovery of the love letters. He rushed DSP Krishnamurthy to Madurai with a well-armed small team. The team left in a rented Maruti car as it moved faster than the CBI's official Ambassadors. They would first go to Sundari's house in Villupuram, which was on the way to Madurai.

Krishnamurthy stood at the front door of Sundari's house. His teammates had taken up strategic positions at a distance. An elderly woman was taking off dried clothes from a rope that hung diagonally across the front courtyard. Krishnamurthy spoke to her. She told the DSP that a 'fair-looking girl and a young man with a tonsured head' had come inquiring about Sundari but had left immediately when told no one was there. She said she had offered them lunch but they were not interested. Apparently, they were talking about going to Madras and that they would eat on the way.