4. Impact on Lending: Despite the fact that banks were flush with funds and interest rates had fallen, lending and credit declined instead of increasing. Data excerpts from the Economic Review section of the RBI's 2017 Annual Report show how drastic the decline was:

- The growth in non-food credit extended by scheduled commercial banks (SCBs) reached a low of 5.8 per cent at end-March 2017, the lowest since 1994–95 (10.9 per cent in the previous year). Banks typically build up credit portfolios at the end of the year for balance sheet considerations. Excluding this window-dressing, non-food credit growth as on 17 March 2017 was even lower at 5.1 per cent vis-à-vis 10.9 per cent on the corresponding day in the previous year.
- Real credit growth showed a sharp deceleration to 1.8 per cent from 5.8 per cent a year ago.
- Credit to all major sectors, barring services, decelerated/contracted during 2016–17.
- Credit to agriculture slowed down to 12.4 per cent from 15.3 per cent in the previous year.
