First and foremost, my thanks to senior former officials of the RBI, whom I have taken the liberty of quoting: ex-Governors Dr Bimal Jalan, Dr Rangarajan, Dr Y.V. Reddy, Dr Duvvuri Subbarao, Dr Raghuram G. Rajan and ex-Deputy Governors Dr K.C. Chakrabarty and Mrs Usha Thorat.

I am just as grateful to the Reserve Bank of India for their excellent website, Annual Reports, Mint Street Memos, Macroeconomic Assessments, and data base, from where I was able to get a great deal of valuable information.

Data was also drawn from the Economic Survey 2018, MoSPI website and press releases, Workdbank.org, the ILER report for IHD, Investopaedia, AIMO, Research Unit for Political Economy (RUPE), The Quarterly Employment Survey prepared by the Ministry of Labour and Employment, Transparency International website and their CPI report, the National Crime Records Bureau, the South Asia Terrorism Portal created and maintained by the Institute for Conflict Management, the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) and National Sample Survey Office (NSSO) data.

My particular thanks to Soumya Kanti Ghosh and his team at State Bank of India (SBI), whose SBI Ecowrap reports were a very useful source of information, and to Mahesh Vyas and his team at Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy (CMIE) whose data was invaluable.

As the 2016 demonetization dominated media space, there were numerous excellent articles by journalists both in mainstream print media and online media. I owe sincere thanks to the journalists and publications from whom I have quoted in the book – Firstpost, India Today, Mint, The Indian Express, The Times of India, Business Standard, the Hindustan Times, The Hindu, Business Today, The Wire, India Spend, Scroll.in; to the websites of Village Square, PARI, LiveLaw, Perfectsourcing and Steelworld; and foreign publications such as The Economist, The Wall Street Journal, Forbes magazine and The New York Times.
