consciousness experiences only itself. It occurs when the constituents of material nature (gunas) no longer operate in relation to the individual centre of consciousness. The soul recovers its true form, disjoined from mental modifications.

Further reading: Whicher 1998; Woods 1927

Yogacara see Vijnanavada