Resolutions are different from motions in the following respects:

"All resolutions are substantive motions. However, all motions need not be of a substantive character, that is to say, they may not require to be voted upon in the house. The difference between a resolution and a motion is more of a procedural nature than of content. Quite often both motion and resolution, on the same subject, are admitted with some slight change of form."[17]

Youth Parliament

The scheme of Youth Parliament was started on the recommendation of the Fourth All India Whips Conference. Its objectives are:

1. to acquaint the younger generations with practices and procedures of Parliament;
2. to imbibe the spirit of discipline and tolerance cultivating character in the minds of youth; and
3. to inculcate in the student community the basic values of democracy and to enable them to acquire a proper perspective on the functioning of democratic institutions.

The ministry of parliamentary affairs provides necessary training and encouragement to the states in introducing the scheme.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEDURE IN PARLIAMENT

The legislative procedure is identical in both the Houses of Parliament. Every bill has to pass through the same stages in each House. A bill is a proposal for legislation and it becomes an act or law when duly enacted.

The bills introduced in the Parliament are of two kinds: public bills and private bills (also known as government bills and private members' bills respectively). Though both are governed by the same general procedure and pass through the same stages in the House, they differ in various respects as shown in Table 23.3.

Depending on their content, the bills may further be classified into[18]:

(a) Original bills (bills embodying new proposals, ideas or policies);

(b) Amending bills (bills which seek to modify, amend or revise the existing Acts);

(c) Consolidating bills (bills which seek to consolidate existing laws on a particular subject);

(d) Expiring Laws (Continuance) bills (bills to continue an expiring Act);

(e) Repealing bills (bills seeking to repeal existing Acts);

(f) Validating bills (bills which seek to give validity to certain actions);

(g) Bills to replace Ordinances;

(h) Constitution (Amendment) bills; and

(i) Money and Financial bills.
