2. There is poor/inadequate response to external audit bordering sometimes on indifference on the part of Government officials, which seriously reduces the effectiveness of audit.

10. Though Audit Committees comprising representatives of audit and government agencies have been set up to review the departmental action taken on inspection reports/recommendations, their functioning is not satisfactory.

11. There is a lack of informed media coverage of CAG's reports on Union/State Governments. The extent of the public interface between the auditors and civil society is poor. Inspection reports are not in the public domain.

12. There is inadequate synergy/coordination between external audit and internal audit.

13. External audit does not provide audit assurance on the fair presentation of financial statements of the Government in accordance with stated accounting principles and policies.

14. There is rarely any audit of grants and loans to NGOs.

Table 52.1 Articles Related to Comptroller and Auditor-General of India at a Glance

Article No.	Subject-matter
148.	Comptroller and Auditor-General of India
149.	Duties and powers of the Comptroller and Auditor-General
150.	Form of accounts of the Union and of the States
151.	Audit reports

[1]The Indian Audit and Accounts Department was created during the British rule in 1753.

[2]Constituent Assembly Debates, Volume VIII, p. 405.

[3]In 2018, the salary of a judge of the Supreme Court had been fixed at ₹2.50 lakh per month.

[4]The appropriation accounts compare the actual expenditure with the expenditure sanctioned by the Parliament through the Appropriation Act, while the finance accounts show the annual receipts and disbursements of the Union government.

[5]Wattal, P.K., Parliamentary Financial Control in India, Second Edition. Bombay: Minerva Book Shop, 1962, p. 235.

[6]D.D. Basu, Introduction to the Constitution of India, Wadhwa, 19th Edition, 2001, p. 198.