4. Parliamentary Government Japan has shown a preference for the British Parliamentary System rather than the American Presidential System of Government. The features of the Japanese Parliamentary system of Government are as follows:

(i) The Emperor is the nominal executive while the Cabinet is the real executive. The Cabinet consists of the Prime Minister as its head and twenty Ministers of State. The Emperor is the head of the State while the Prime Minister is head of the Government.

(ii) The party which secures majority seats in the House of Representatives forms the Government. The leader of the majority party or majority coalition invariably becomes the Prime Minister.

(iii) The Prime Minister is designated from among the members of the Diet by a resolution of the Diet. The Emperor appoints the Prime Minister as designated by the Diet.

(iv) The Prime Minister appoints the Ministers of State. But, a majority of them should be chosen from among the members of the Diet.
