contracted in India with the government deciding not to play an expansionary role during the year.