Table 3.3 Key developments and pioneers of second-generation models.

Model/year	Developer/country	Key technological features	Primary role/application	Sig
Ryan Firebee (1951)	Ryan Aeronautical/United States	Jet-powered UAV with improved aerodynamics and endurance; radio-controlled flight system.	Target training and reconnaissance.	One reu the for sur pla
Ryan Model 147 "Lightning Bug" (1964)	US Air Force/Ryan Aeronautical	Equipped with cameras and sensors for high-altitude, long-range missions.	Strategic reconnaissance in the Vietnam War.	Firs pro esta dro inte too
IAI Scout (1979)	Israel Aerospace Industries/Israel	Real-time video transmission, telemetry, and electronic warfare payloads.	Battlefield reconnaissance and target tracking.	Pio sma tec wic exp mil
RQ-2 Pioneer (1986)	US Navy and Marine Corps/United States	GPS-assisted navigation, stabilized camera systems, and compact airframe.	Naval reconnaissance and artillery spotting.	Key nav ope firs to t batt ima