Table 2.3 Military applications of first-generation drones.

Application area	Drone model/ example	Country of use	Purpose/ mission role	Key features/ technology used	Significa contribu
Target practice and gunnery training	Queen Bee (1935)	United Kingdom	Served as a moving aerial target for anti-aircraft gunnery training.	Radio-controlled biplane; reusable; operated by the Royal Navy and RAF.	First operatio and r produce drone; improve training safety accuracy
Reconnaissance and surveillance	Aerial Target (1916), Ruston Proctor Aerial Target (1917)	United Kingdom	Designed for experimental remote reconnaissance and interception missions.	Early radio control system; basic aerial stability; line-of-sight operation.	Introduc the co of unma surveilla and gatherin
Aerial bombing and torpedo delivery	Kettering Bug (1918)	United States	Functioned as an unmanned aerial torpedo intended to deliver explosives	Mechanical timer for automatic engine cutoff; pre-programed flight path.	First automate flight guided munitio concept; precurso