cells.

An Excel worksheet automatically assigns all new rows or columns the default row height or column width and does not affect the height or width of existing rows or columns.

Here are the steps to follow to change the width or height of the cells in an Excel worksheet:

1. Choose the cells whose row width or column height you want to change and click on them. Holding down the "Ctrl" key while clicking on the cells will allow you to select multiple cells simultaneously.

