To force Excel to handle the addition operation first, you must use parentheses like this:

=(3+4)*5.

The result of this will be 35.

Understanding the order of operations will go a long way to help you create an accurate and well-organized formula.