Also, the function called STDEVPA, allows you to calculate a population's standard deviation based on an entire population (instead of just a sample).