The idea is to check if dividing the value in cell C3 by the value in cell D3 will result in an Error because one of the cells is empty. So, it returns the text "Not paid" instead of an error message.