based on your system memory. The bigger your memory, the more worksheets you can create in a single workbook.

So, if you have a workbook meant to store daily reports, you will need 365 worksheets to keep track of your daily data. Whatever you do with the number of worksheets you want to create in a workbook, your system will eventually slow down if you deal with big data on multiple worksheets.