PRINT TITLES

When printing a large Excel worksheet that spans multiple pages, it can be difficult to distinguish between columns and rows. Excel has a feature that allows you to print specific rows or columns as page headers. This facilitates reading and interpretation of your printed worksheet.

To begin, navigate to the Print Titles section under the Page Setup dialog box and select any options.

Depending on whether you want a horizontal or vertical title, you can select Rows to repeat at top or Columns to repeat at the left in the resulting dialog box.

Afterward, choose the cell or cells you wish to utilize as the title. You can accomplish this by clicking the "Collapse Dialog" button on the dialog box's right side. This button will move the dialog box aside momentarily, allowing you to select directly the cells you want to utilize as the title on the worksheet.

After choosing the title cells, you can expand the dialog box by clicking the Collapse dialog button again. This will enable you to modify additional
