

Once the fields and areas are visible, you can experiment with different pivot views to gain insights and make better decisions based on your data.