(Ibid., p. 229); or again, "Moreover, the scriptural passage, 'He is to be heard, to be thought,' enjoins thought in addition to hearing, and thereby shows that Reasoning also is to be resorted to with regard to Brahman" (Ibid., p. 300).

5. Jha, op. cit., pp. 177-184; Nyāya-sūtra, II. i. 50-57.
6. B. Faddegon, The Vaiçeṣika-system (Amsterdam: Johannes Muller, 1918), pp. 465-474.
7. S.C. Vidyabhusana, A History of Indian Logic (Calcutta: Calcutta University, 1921), p. 288.
8. Jha, op. cit., p. 191; Nyāya-sūtra, II. i. 69.
9. Ibid., p. 192; Nyāya-bhāṣya, II. i. 69. Italics mine.
10. Ibid., p. 193; Nyāya-bhāṣya, II. i. 69.