- Circular Reference Error
  This error occurs when a formula references itself or another formula that references the original formula. Check that your formulas do not contain circular references.

To fix these errors, you can use Excel’s error-checking feature, which identifies and suggests solutions for any errors in the worksheet.

In addition, you can manually check formulas and cell references for accuracy. Excel’s help function can also be useful for looking up information on specific error messages.