

The result changes because Excel prioritizes the operation within the parentheses, in this case, 3-2. Subsequently, Excel performs multiplication, then division, and finally addition. This altered sequence of operations due to the parentheses results in a different outcome.