9. _____include chemical analysis, microbiological analysis, pesticide residue and aflatoxin analysis.
   a) ISO Mark
   b) Silk mark
   c) Agmark standard
   d) Ecomark
10. _____ mark is by prescribed Bureau of Indian standards for eco-friendly products
   a) ISO Mark
   b) Silk mark
   c) Agmark standard
   d) Ecomark

II. Write Very Short Answers (2 marks)

1. Define consumer.
2. What is meant by goods?
3. Give two examples for service.
4. Ramu is adding water to milk for profit – identify the type of adulteration.
5. Brief about deceptive goods.
6. What is silkmark?
7. Brief about National consumer disputes redressal commission.
8. Define brand.
9. What is geographic place brands?
10. What are removable labels?

III. Write Short Answers (3 marks)

1. Describe on the purpose of consumer education.
2. Enlist the problems faced by consumers related to products.
3. Selvam bought a pair of expensive branded shoes but on using he found it was not genuine and safe. It was a duplicate of expensive brand- Comment on type of unfair trade practice involved in this case.
4. When the consumer is forced to take certain goods as free gifts as introductory offer but the cost is hidden and is paid by the consumer - identify unfair trade practice involved and comment.
5. Differentiate Vegetarian and Non Vegetarian mark.
6. Write about important information which are needed to be found in a label.
7. Who can file a complaint in consumer redressal forum?
8. Describe the elements of branding
9. Why do we pack food? Mention any one function of packaging.
10. Enumerate on classification of packaging.

IV. Write in detail (5 marks)

1. Elaborate on the problems faced by consumer.
2. How does advertisement affect buying decisions? Give two examples.
3. What information will you gather before buying any product? State with examples.
4. Explain the purpose of standardization mark of the products.
5. With an example explain the information which are needed to be found in a label.

XII Std - Home Science EM_Unit 2.indd 76 23-03-2020 3.29.23 PM