

Fix the issue by opening the Project Navigator again via ⌘ 1 and clicking the HikingJournal project at the top. Select HikingJournal from the list of Targets (not Project) in the middle column. Then select the Build Settings tab at the top.

This is where you can configure all sorts of complicated settings related to how the app is built. We won't mess around with these settings very much in this book, but you do need to change one option here.

Search for "Info.plist File" in the upper right search box. Then change `HikingJournal/Info.plist` to the new location, `App/Resources/Info.plist`.