`UIHostingController`. Then, you set the `view_controller` property in your path configuration to tell the client when to display the view controller. Following MVVM, you then created a model and a view model to fetch JSON data from the server to pass it to the map view. Finally, you wired everything up with a `.task()` modifier in the SwiftUI view to initiate the network request.