Adding this capability will add a new entitlements file to the Xcode project. Personally, I don't like it floating at the root level. Drag and drop it into the `Resources` folder. The full name of this file is `HikingJournal.entitlements`, but Xcode will hide the extension.

As we did for `Info.plist` in Clean Up the iOS Directories, we need to tell Xcode the new location of the file. Open the target's Build Settings and search for "entitlements" in the upper right. Then, update the value for Code Signing Entitlements to point to the new path: `App/Resources/HikingJournal.entitlements`, as shown in the screenshot.
