Run the app, background it, and trigger another notification. This time, tap the notification. The app will route the hike page, just as on iOS, as shown in the screenshot. Excellent! You've achieved feature parity with iOS once again.

