add `/profile` to the array, and you're done! No need to even touch the native code, let alone submit a new release to the app stores.

Before your iOS app can apply these rules, you need to wire up a remote path configuration.