Further, when Modi invited Xi Jinping to India in September 2014, the PLA in a brazen act of intimidation intruded into the Chumar and Demchok sectors in Ladakh. Once again, India's resolve was being tested. With every incursion into Indian territory, the Chinese extend their claim line further into India. They have steadfastly refused to resolve the border issue and demarcate the Line of Actual Control, because their intention is to keep testing India's resolve until it cracks significantly. In 2016, the Chinese made 260 incursions into Indian territory. In fact, in October 2016, extensive police raids in the Baramulla area of the valley lead to the seizure of Chinese flags and other incriminating documents from terrorist safehouses.[44]
