The feast ended and Mīrzā happily offered Babur an enamelled waist-dagger, a chārqāb,[22] and a horse.

For the whole, the long stay in Herī Yūsuf-i-'alī Kūkūldāsh happened to become Babur's guide for the excursion. Babur roamed around almost the whole of the town in those forty days except for a place—Sulṭān Ḥusayn Mīrzā's almshouse, which nevertheless wasn't a famous spot according to Babur. He has recorded the places he visited in the Baburnama:[*]

> I saw the Gāzur-gāh, 'Alī-sher's Bāghcha (Little-garden), the Paper-mortars, Takht-astāna (Royal-residence), Pul-i-gāh, Kahad-stān, Naẓar-gāh-garden, Ni'matābād (Pleasure-place), Gāzur-gāh Avenue, Sulṭān Aḥmad Mīrzā's Ḥaẕirat, Takht-i-safar, Takht-i-nawā'ī, Takht-i-barkar, Takht-i-Ḥājī Beg, Takht-i-Bahā'u'd-dīn 'Umar, Takht-i-Shaikh Zainu'd-dīn, Maulānā 'Abdu'r-raḥmān Jāmī's honoured shrine and tomb, Namāz-gāh-i-mukhtār, the Fish-pond, Sāq-i-sulaimān, Bulūrī (Crystal) which originally may have been Abū'l-walīd, Imām Fakhr, Avenue-garden, Mīrzā's Colleges and tomb, Guhār-shād Begum's College, tomb, and Congregational Mosque, the Ravens'-garden,New-garden, Zubaida-garden, Sulṭān Abū-sa'īd Mīrzā's White-house outside the 'Iraq-gate, Pūrān, the Archer's-seat, Chargh (hawk)-meadow, Amīr Wāḥid, Mālān-bridge, Khwāja-tāq, White-garden, ṭarab-khāna, Bāgh-i-jahān-ārā, Kūshk, Maqauwī-khāna, Lily-house, Twelve-towers, the great tank to the north of Jahān-ārā and the four dwellings on its four sides, the five Fort-gates, viz. the Malik, 'Irāq, Fīrūzābād, Khūsh and Qībchāq Gates, Chārsū, Shaikhu'l-islām's College, Maliks' Congregational Mosque, Town-garden, Badī'u'z-zamān Mīrzā's College on the bank of the Anjīl-canal, 'Alī-sher Beg's dwellings where we resided and which people call Unsīya (Ease), his tomb and mosque which they call Qudsīya (Holy), his College and Almshouse which they call Khalāṣīya and Akhlāṣīya (Freedom and Sincerity), his Hot-bath and Hospital which they call Ṣafā'īya and Shafā'īya. All these I visited in that space of time.

Babur Gets Engaged to Ma'ṣūma Sulṭān and Leaves Khurāsān

Sulṭān Aḥmad Mīrzā's mother Ḥabība Sulṭān Begum, had brought her youngest daughter Ma'ṣūma Sulṭān begum to Herī. One fine day when Babur visited his Ākā, Ma'ṣūma Sulṭān begum too arrived there with her mother. She was immensely infatuated with Babur at first sight. Discussions around engagement happened with Pāyanda Sulṭān Begum and Habība Sulṭān Begum. It was finally settled between them that Habība Sulṭān Begum should bring her daughter to Kābul after Babur had reached there.

Muḥammad Barandūq Beg and Ẕū'n-nūn Arghūn had been insisting Babur spend the winters there, but no arrangements for same were made. Finally, the bad winters had arrived. The thick sheet of snow lay on the mountains between
