> When I knew of this unsteadiness amongst (my) people, I summoned all the begs and took counsel. Said I, “There is no supremacy and grip on the world without means and resources; without lands and retainers’ sovereignty and command (Padishahlīq u amīrlīq) are impossible. By the labors of several years, by encountering hardship, by long travel, by flinging myself and the army into battle, and by deadly slaughter, we, through Allah’s grace, beat these masses of enemies so that we might take their broad lands. And now what force compels us, what necessity has arisen that we should, without cause, abandon countries taken at such risk of life? Was it for us to remain in Kābul, the sport of harsh poverty? Henceforth, let no well-wisher of mine speak of such things! But let not those turn back from going who, weak in strong persistence, have set their faces to depart!” By these words, which recalled just and reasonable views to their minds, I made them, willy-nilly, quit their fears.

Interestingly, when Khwāja Kalān decided to leave Hindustan, Babur lured him with many gifts and territories. Babur has said:[†]

> I bestowed on him Ghaznī, Girdīz and the Sulṭān Mas‘ūdī Hazāra, gave also the Hindustan pargana of G’hūram, worth 3 or 4 lakhs. It was settled for Khwāja Mīr-i-mīrān also to go to Kābul; the gifts were put into his immediate charge, under the custody of Mullā Ḥasan the banker (ṣarrāf) and Tūka Hindū.

When Sulṭān Ibrāhīm Lodi had appointed several amīrs under Muṣṭafa Farmūlī and Fīrūz Khān Sārang-khānī, to act against the rebel amīrs of the east, one Muṣṭafa had fought and drubbed them thoroughly. He died just before Babur defeated Ibrāhīm. His younger brother Shaikh Bāyazīd then had led the men. After the victory, Shaikh Bāyazīd along with Fīrūz Khān, Maḥmūd Khān Nuḥānī and Qāẓī Jīā had come to serve. Babur was very happy. In his happiness, he showered them with abundant kindness and favour. He gave Fīrūz Khān one krūr, forty-six lakhs and five thousand tankas from Jūnpūr. Shaikh Bāyazīd was given one krūr, forty-eight lakhs, and fifty thousand tankas from Awadh. Babur granted ninety lakhs and thirty thousand tankas to Maḥmūd Khān from Ghāzīpūr (originally Gadhipur) and finally, Qāẓī Jīā was granted Rs 23 lakh.

Once, post the victory on Lodis, an ‘Īd celebration party was thrown at a place which was once the Ibrāhīm’s private apartment. Babur bestowed several gifts:[*]

1. Two items (rā’s) of tīpūchāq horses with saddles.
2. Sixteen items (qabẓa) of poniards, set with jewels, etc.
3. Eight items (qabẓa) of purpet over-garments.
4. Two items (tob) of jewelled sword belts.
5. Items (qabẓa) of broad daggers (jamd’kar) set with jewels.
6. Twenty-five items of jewelled hangers (Khānjar).
