fact that Najaf and Karbala were developed as a habitable economic zone by the Shia rulers of North India.'[†]

Well, all these anecdotes from the pages of history make us understand that while the GDP share of the Sulṭānate never dropped much though GDP/capita growth turned negative.