

Figure 1: Regions of Babur's territory

From Babur's perspective, the climate of Andijān was quite miraculous. He observed that the people commonly contracted fever during autumn in that region.

Osh[6] lies to the south-east of Andijān inclining largely towards the eastern edge. The climate in Osh was fabulous with an abundance of running waters. It had the most stunning spring season. Traditional narratives have sung praises about the excellencies of Osh. To its south-east