subject (Erskine). Babur marks the distinction of rank he drew between the Arghūn chiefs and himself when he calls their letter to him, ‘arẓ-dāsht, his to them khaṭṭ. His claim to suzerainty over those chiefs is shewn by Ḥaidar Mīrzā to be based on his accession to Tīmūrid headship through the downfall of the Bāī-qarās, who had been the acknowledged suzerains of the Arghūns now repudiating Babur’s claim.

38 According to the note 1283 of Annette Susannah Beveridge, var. Kūr or Kawar. If the word mean ford, this might well be the one across the Tarnak carrying the road to Qarā (maps). Here Babur seems to have left the main road along the Tarnak, by which the British approach was made in AD 1880, for one crossing west into the valley of the Argand-āb.

39 Annette Susannah Beveridge has given below note on the terminologies:

> Although barānghār, aūng qūl, aūng yān and aūng (right wing, right hand, right side and right) all have the same meaning, I have applied them in different senses in order to vary terms and mark distinctions. As, in the battle-array, the (Ar.) maimana and maisara i.e., what people call (Turkī) barānghār and jawānghār (r. and l. wings) are not included in the (Ar.) qalb, i.e., what people call (T.) ghūl (centre), so it is in arraying the centre itself. Taking the array of the centre only, its (Ar.) yamīn and yasār (r. and l.) are called (by me) aūng qūl and sūl qūl (r. and l. hands). Again, —the (Ar.) khāṣa tābīn (royal troop) in the centre has its yamīn and yasār which are called (by me) aūng yān and sūl yān (r. and l. sides, T. yān). Again, —in the khāṣa tābīn there is the (T.) būī (nīng) tīkīnī (close circle); its yamīn and yasār are called sūng and sūl. In the Turkī tongue they call one single thing a būī, but that is not the būī meant here; what is meant here is close (yāqīn).

40Annette Susannah Beveridge’s note on Pīrī Beg: This Pīrī Beg was one of those Turkmāns who came (into Herī) with the Turkmān Begs led by ‘Abdu’l-bāqī Mīrzā and Murād Beg, after Shāh Ismā‘īl vanquished the Bāyandar sulṭāns and seized the ‘Irāq countries (As per the note 1296 of Beveridge it was in AD 1502).

41 The name of whose house it was is missing in the manuscript of Baburnama.

42 Reason is not mentioned in the manuscript.

43 According to the note 1305 of Annette Susannah Beveridge, Shaybāni had most probably taken the route of Sabzār, Daulatābād, and Washīr.

44 Note of Annette Susannah Beveridge in this context:

> Those holding their heads up in Badakhshān at this crisis were, of Badakhshīs, Mubārak Shāh and Zubair, Jahāngīr Turkmān and Muhammad the armorer. They had driven Nāṣir Mīrzā out but had not joined the Aūzbeg.

45 Mirza Muhammad Haidar Dughlat writes, ‘Shāh Begīm laid claim to Badakhshān, saying, “it has been our hereditary kingdom for 3000 years;
