I, 1926, paragraph 21.

12 Ibid., para 32.

13 Ibid., para 22.

14 Ibid., para 54.

15 Ibid., para 59.

16 Ibid., para 60.

17 Ibid., para 83.

18 Ibid., para 83.

19 Ibid., para 83.

20 Ibid., para 87.

21 Ibid., para 87.

22 Ibid., para 89.

23 Legislative Assembly Debates, January 25, 1927, Vol. I, p. 66.

24 The denominations suggested by the Commission of the notes to be issued by the bank were 1, 5, 50, 100, 500, 1,000 and 10,000 rupees subject to the approval of the Governor General in Council. The issue of bank notes was to be conducted by the bank in a department called the Issue Department, which was to be separated and kept wholly distinct from the other Department in which its general banking business was to be carried on and which was to be called the Banking Department.

25 The proportional reserve system was to be adopted. Gold and gold securities were to form not less than 40 percent of the reserve, subject to a possible temporary reduction, with the consent of Government, on payment of a tax. The currency authority was to strive to work to a reserve ratio of 50 to 60 percent. The gold holding was to be raised to 20 percent of the reserve as soon as possible and to 25 percent within ten years. During that period, no favorable opportunity of fortifying the gold holding in the reserve was to be allowed to escape. Of the gold holding at least one-half was to be held in India.

26 Report of the Royal Commission on Indian Currency and Finance, para 170.

27 Ibid., para 195.