21 Report of the Committee on Finance for the Private Sector, p. 98.

22 It was merged with IDBI in September 1964.

23 Pandit Nehru at that stage wanted all growth and development to be led by the public sector. When T.T.K. told him that tax exemptions were involved, Nehru said that it should be set up in the public sector.

24 V.G. Pendharkar, Unit Trust of India: Retrospect and Prospect, UBS Publishers' Distributors Pvt. Ltd, New Delhi, 2003, p. 1.

25 Ibid., p. 121.

26 Sucheta Dalal, Op. Cit., pp. 84–85.

The Making of a Development Bank

1 G. Balachandran, The Reserve Bank of India 1951–67, Oxford University Press, New Delhi, 1998, p. 532.

2 Ibid., p. 531–532.

3 Ibid., p. 533.

4 B.K. Nehru, Nice Guys Finish Second, Penguin Viking, New Delhi, p. 240.

5 Ibid., p. 243.

6 G. Balachandran, Op.Cit., p. 533.

7 Ibid.

8 Aparna Basu, G.L. Mehta: A Many Splendoured Man, Concept Publishing Company, New Delhi, 2001, p. 173.

9 H.T. Parekh, The Story of a Development Bank: ICICI 1955–1979, ICICI, 1980.

10 H.T. Parekh, 'Indian Capital Market: Past, Present and Future', A.D. Shroff Memorial Lecture, 1975.

11 K.K. Birla, Brushes with History, Penguin Viking, 2007, pp. 98–99.

12 Gita Piramal, Business Legends, Penguin Viking, 1998, p. 302.

13 H.T. Parekh, 'My Reminiscences' in Writings of H.T.Parekh: India in Transition Through the Eyes of a Visionary 1940s to 1990, Vol.2, A Tribute by HDFC and ICICI, p 652.

14 H.T. Parekh: A Tribute, HDFC.