inference is certainly possible. It appears that Bhagat Singh knows something that Sukhdev doesn't. It is arguable that this is why he tells Sukhdev, 'But you cannot understand these things till you have yourself fallen prey to this.' Fallen prey to what?[10] Surely, it must mean the 'very sweet human emotion' where 'the character of a person is always elevated by love . . .'. Bhagat Singh, in short, was not oblivious to the finer feelings of the human condition. On the contrary, he had a high opinion of romantic love, which he proclaimed as particularly good for revolutionaries.
