

Culture Region

A culture region is a portion of Earth that has common cultural elements and has distinct cultural authority from other regions. Any number of cultural components may be used to define culture regions. A map of world religions, for example, includes a shaded area in South Asia where Hinduism is dominant.

Culture regions differ greatly in size. Some are exceedingly large, like the Islamic culture region that encompasses millions of square km of North Africa and Southwest Asia. Some are very small, like Spanish Harlem, which encompasses about three square km of Manhattan. Many others are of intermediate size, like the Corn Belt, which occupies a portion of the mid western United States.

Cultural Diffusion

Cultural diffusion is the spread of cultural beliefs and social activities from one group of people to another. Mixing of world culture through different ethnicities, religions and nationalities has only increased with advanced communication, transport and technology.

Cultural Landscape

Cultural Landscapes have been defined by the World Heritage Committee as "cultural properties representing the combined works of nature and of man".

The World Heritage Committee has identified and adopted three categories of cultural landscape. The three categories extracted from the Committee's Operational Guidelines, are as follows:

(i) "A landscape designed and created intentionally by man".

(ii) An "organically evolved landscape" which may be a "relict (or fossil) landscape" or a "continuing landscape";

(iii) An "associative cultural landscape" which may be valued because of the "religious, artistic or cultural associations of the natural element".

Cultural Interaction

Cultural interaction focuses on the relationships that often exist between cultural components that characterize a given community. Different factors interact with each other and give rise to prevalent trait.

What language do you speak? What dress do you wear? What food do you like? What is the structure of the house you live in? For the above question by searching the answer we can learn the culture of a human society.

Culture shapes our identity and influences our behaviours. Culture refers to the sharing language, beliefs, values, norms, behaviours and material objects, which are passed from one generation to the next generation. Cultural geography is the branch of human geography which deals about the areal organization of various cultural aspects in relation to total environment. Some of the cultural aspects are as follows:

Language

Language plays great force in socialization and historical transmission, which is the primary instrument for transmitting culture. Human can bind any group of people through the network of interaction. Languages are in written or oral form. India (780) has the world's second highest number of languages, after Papua New Guinea (839).

Customs

Custom in law is the established pattern of behavior that can be objectively verified within a particular social setting. .Habit is a similar word which is adopted by an individual and it has been adopted by most of the people of the ethnic group or society.
