Now, try accessing the sign-in page for the admin model. You will find it different based on the mark you put in the layout for admin. In my case, the view is as shown in the following screenshot:

Specific layout for admin

If you have more than two Devise models, the other one will also have a different layout. In my case, I used a default layout, which is defined by `devise_application.html.erb`. The result is as shown in the following screenshot:
