physical changes that occur in the bodies when one experiences an emotion.

- Behavioural or Expressive component:- Action done as a result of cognitive and physiology. Ex. Emotional expression is a form of communication. A baby's smile can create bonding.

Bodily changes accompanying emotions

There are bodily changes happening during positive as well as negative emotions.

Internal bodily changes: It includes changes in

- Functioning of heart
- Blood circulation
- Functioning of digestive system
- Sugar level
- Red Blood cells
- Temperature
- Secretions of ducts and ductless glands
- Sweating and perspiration
- Tone of the muscles
- Functioning of the brain

External bodily changes: These are observed in

- Face as facial expressions
- Body postures
- Voice as vocal expressions

Emotional Adjustments

Emotional adjustment is the realization of one's emotions and feelings and controlling feelings when making relationship with others.

It is the capability of adjusting to his self and environment in relation to the use and expression of his own emotions. An emotionally adjusted person has an ability to express all types of emotions, positive or negative, in an appropriate degree with reasonable control at the appropriate time.

Characteristics of an emotionally adjusted person

- All emotions are easily recognized in him
- He/She expresses emotions in a socially desirable way
- He exercises control over his emotions
- He is not a day dreamer.
- He will not run away from realities
- He is guided more by his intellect than his emotions
- He never puts the responsibility of his own mistakes on others
- He possess adequate self concept and self respect
- He thinks for others
- He never engages in antisocial behavior
- He maintains social relationships
- He has emotional stability

Emotions in Health and illness

- All emotions are basically useful to our survival.
- Emotions are capable of exercising a leading role in the health and happiness of the individual.
- An emotionally adjusted person is found to possess a good health, free from illness or diseases.
- An emotionally maladjusted individual is characterized with a poor health and ailing personality.
- The person with positive emotions enjoys good physical health
- Many of our chronic physical conditions and illnesses are linked with emotional maladjustment.
- Emotional maladjustments increases the individual's susceptibility to many physical and mental ailments.

3.7 Personality disorders

Personality of an individual is all that possessed by him in terms of his physique,

Unit_3_Applied_psycology_Gen_Nur.indd 94 04-03-2020 16:50:09