pandemic. I intend for this book to become a definitive account of India's response to the pandemic in comparison to the prevailing situation in the world. For that, I have borrowed heavily from media pieces and books written by various authors around the world. I hope to empower you all with accurate information, because after all, information is strength. And finally, readers, I do sincerely believe that you all will come away feeling the same sense of pride in our country as I have after writing this book.