Chapter 1 – Ancient History

The ancient world is generally considered to have existed before the first century CE. A number of civilizations sprang up around the world, many of which stamped their own mark on history. This is a time steeped in legend and mythology, a time which still captivates and inspires us. Read on to discover some of the best-known cultures from ancient times.