time. On September 27th, Warsaw surrendered to Germany. The Germans and Russians had agreed to split up Poland prior the invasion. Once they had full control, they razed the villages, massacred the inhabitants and caused serious destruction. In towns such as Lodz, Jews were herded into ghettos and transported to concentration camps. Hitler visited Warsaw on the 5th of October and upon seeing the devastated capital, declared: ‘This is how I deal with any European city’.
