What’s Next

With our build system explained, we’re ready to add more complex features to the code. In the next part, we’ll look at communicating with the server, managing state, and how we can manage communications both with our server and across our client pages as part of our Stimulus and React code.

Footnotes

[52] https://yarnpkg.com

[53] https://yarnpkg.com/en/docs/package-json

[54] https://babeljs.io

[55] https://github.com/browserslist/browserslist

[56] https://esbuild.github.io/content-types/#javascript

[57] https://esbuild.github.io/content-types/#typescript

[58] https://esbuild.github.io/api/#simple-options

[59] https://coffeescript.org

[60] https://github.com/johnie/esbuild-coffeescript

[61] https://getbootstrap.com

[62] http://bulma.io

Copyright © 2022, The Pragmatic Bookshelf.