What’s Next

In this chapter, we managed state in our Stimulus page using the DOM to hold our state. React works differently—it uses a JavaScript pattern called a reducer. In the next chapter, we’ll look at how React manages state to use React’s internal reducer pattern.

Footnotes

[70] https://developer.mozilla.org/en-US/docs/Web/API/MutationRecord

[71] https://github.com/rails/kredis

Copyright © 2022, The Pragmatic Bookshelf.