Given that the Tuticorin lawyers were all supporters of the Swadeshi movement, the exclusively European Tuticorin Chamber of Commerce had demanded that the sub-court be abolished or removed elsewhere. (Tuticorin Chamber of Commerce, Minutes Book, vol. 1, resolution of the extraordinary general meeting, 28-3-1908.) In this context, the collector remarked cheerfully, ‘The constitution of the new district has made all the Tuticorin vakils feel insecure. They think the Sub-Court will not be retained at Tuticorin.’ In 1910, when the new Ramanad district was formed, two taluks were sequestered from Tirunelveli district.
