[1] The Hindu, 14-5-1908; VOC, Agame Puram (Chennai, 1916), preface. However, the scenario had changed and, by the 1920s, Rajaji was displeased with VOC for his sympathy with the non-Brahmin movement. M.P. Sivagnanam recalls how Rajaji railed against VOC when he invited him to the installation ceremony of VOC's bust in the Congress office in Madras City in 1937, and put up an indifferent show at the event. (Sivagnanam, Enathu Porattam, pp. 144–47.) But twelve years later, Rajaji made amends.

[2] Rajaji's Speeches, vol. II, p. 8. For other reports on this launch, Sakthi, Feb–March 1949; Manjari, April 1949.