An Appeal

The Swadeshi Steam Navigation Company Limited hardly needs any introduction to the public. Its creation and struggle for existence are part of Indian history. It was the first attempt on any large industrial scale to challenge the monopoly by foreign capital of the waterways of India. Taken up at a time when there was no previous experience to guide the projectors, it has fought a losing fight against great odds handicapped by the mistakes inseparable from a novel attempt, assisted only by the newly awakened patriotism of the country; and in spite of all it has survived and with some fresh help from that patriotism, will be able to resume its activity free of obstacles, instructed by experience and confident of success.
